

Short Bio

Ranjeeta Raam is an Indian writer currently living in Dubai. She writes MG and upper MG. Her first novel, If Elephants Could Talk, is a middle-grade contemporary fiction, written in verse. Writing brought her close to her culture, and she is now very keen to bring out those aspects of it that the world knows very little of. Culture, environment, social awareness, animal welfare, and empathy are some things very close to her heart and she hopes to raise awareness about these in her kid readers.
